To Whom It May Concern,

Oct. 7, 2010

Northwest Geothermal has been a fantastic company to work with. I have had the pleasure of dealing with Jason Bartel, the owner, Mr. Bartel is always professional, polite, fun to be around, and definitely one of the best in the industry. Northwest Geothermal and Jason Bartel always have great ideas in getting the job done efficiently and on time. Our company has been in business 30 years and if Northwest Geothermal wasn't a grade A contractor we wouldn't be doing business. We have maintained a working business relationship over the last couple years working together on all of our Geothermal projects and have had no issues to date, as a matter of fact, it runs smoother. Jason has always been on time and done an outstanding job. If you are serious about geothermal you need to stick with a professional that has performed time and time again, Northwest Geothermal. I have to credit the success of Northwest Geothermal to its attention to detail, past experience and willingness to go the extra mile. Hopefully this letter does what it is intended for and lets you know you are dealing with a stand up company owned by a stand up guy.

Sincerely,
